

Understanding Its vs It's worksheet

Quick Refresher:

- It's = It is or It has (e.g. It's raining = It is raining)
 - Its = possessive form of it (e.g. The dog wagged its tail)
-

Instructions:

Decide whether each sentence below should use its or it's

1. Council released its/it's annual report yesterday.
 2. The playground has lost some of its/it's appeal since the swings were removed.
 3. Its/it's going to be a warm weekend and will be perfect for the beach.
 4. The shire is known for its/it's arts scene and creative energy.
 5. We're updating Council's website to improve its/it's accessibility.
 6. Its/it's been a while since the skate park got an upgrade.
 7. The community garden has grown beyond its/it's original boundaries.
 8. That dog has lost its/it's collar again!
 9. Its/it's important to check the weather before heading out.
 10. The festival drew a big crowd thanks to its/it's new location.
-

Bonus Round:

Each sentence below has two or more uses of its or it's. Fix any errors.

11. Its/it's clear that the project has reached its/it's final stage.
12. The group said its/it's ready to take on the challenge, despite its/it's size.
13. Its/it's amazing how quickly the area lost its/it's charm.
14. The cat chased its/it's tail until its/it's owner distracted it.
15. Its/it's been a busy week, and the team is proud of its/it's work.